ABOUT US

GameDevUtopia aims to build a community of people who are enthusiastic about developing video games, and e-games and make them aware of the domain of Game Development, and realize its potential as a flourishing industry. We primarily focus on two major elements of a game to society that is coding and designing along with its integration into the real world market.

PICT DEBSOC is a community that develops and nurtures public speaking skills and a variety of soft skills which are essential in today's world. The modern world requires people to not only be technically proficient in their work but also be outspoken leaders who can effect change. We ensure that students improve their oratory skills by giving them a platform where they can voice their opinions and grow in confidence.

THE BIGGEST COLLABORATION EVER

This year, we are collaborating to organize a single power-packed flagship event - Paricharcha x Glitched. The collaboration aspires to explore the ideology that both clubs have in common - “Imagination”. There can be no arguments and no speeches without imagining a world that could have been or should have been. There can be no games without imagining the virtual world that you want to develop. The very same imagination is what led to this collaboration. We imagined an event with the perfect amalgamation of the all-important soft skills and the wonders and joys of games and their development. Now, it's time to bring our imagination to fruition
